

QUADRANT

With our sprawling facilities and acknowledgement of the energy consumption it takes to run the facilities, Quadrant set out on a mission with the Green Building Initiative to become a certified clean energy supplier by making our facilities resource efficient, healthier and environmentally sustainable.

Through the installation of onsite, rooftop solar panels at our Hangzhou, China facilities, Quadrant has achieved the goal of becoming a certified clean energy supplier. We plan to continue to expand our sustainable energy program to align with our business growth and continue our environmentally friendly production practices.
